

Your partnership with PAMPAC is essential to our success.

Dear Colleague,

From insurance companies and hospital executives driven by profits, to burdensome paperwork and regulatory requirements, it is easy to feel as though physicians are being assaulted from all directions. This November, physicians have the opportunity to influence on these issues by electing legislators who will defend our patient care. As an individual physician, it is difficult to make a significant impact, but together we can make our collective voices heard – there is strength in numbers.

One of the personal, and professional, decisions that I have made is to contribute to PAMPAC, the bipartisan political action committee of the Pennsylvania Medical Society. PAMPAC needs your support in this election to help candidates in our community who are committed to supporting us on our issues: prior authorization, team-based care, informed consent and opioid abuse to mention just a few.

Collectively and individually, as PAMED members we do have input. But we are effective only if we make the personal contribution that PAMPAC needs to support those candidates who are truly our friends.

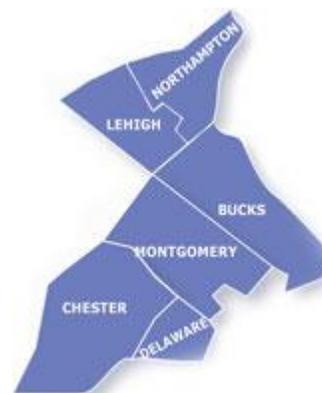

Please join me in making PAMPAC stronger in 2018. Your partnership with PAMPAC is essential to our success. IT STARTS WITH YOU!

With the proper resources, namely financing and grassroots involvement, PAMPAC can make a difference in these elections and make a difference for you practice and your patients. Our ability to flex our political muscle is limited only by your ability to support our efforts. Invest in your future and your practice in Pennsylvania. Please join PAMPAC today at www.pampac.org. Thank you.

Together we are stronger.

Mark A. Lopatin, MD

District 2 Director
PAMPAC Board of Directors

JOIN PAMPAC

PAMPAC is the political arm of the Pennsylvania Medical Society. Membership in PAMPAC is voluntary and serves as the united voice of physicians in the political arena. PAMPAC contributes to candidates for state and, through AMPAC, federal office who support the priorities of the Pennsylvania Medical Society membership. The organization is headquartered in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania and is directed by a board of members from the Pennsylvania Medical Society and the Pennsylvania Medical Society Alliance. PAMPAC eNEWS is prepared to keep readers informed about political and educational advocacy initiatives affecting Pennsylvania physicians. To learn more about PAMPAC log on to www.pamedsoc.org/pampac.